

The background of the entire image is a close-up, low-angle shot of a spider web. A large, semi-transparent red rectangle is positioned in the upper half of the image, serving as a backdrop for the main title. In the lower center, there is a dark grey rectangular box with a red glow effect around it, containing the location text. The overall aesthetic is modern and technical, with the spider web symbolizing interconnectedness and the network diagram adding a digital security dimension.
